

Private Hoffa Notes Studied By FBI For Possible Clues

DETROIT (AP) — The FBI is studying some of Jimmy Hoffa's private notes in an effort to retrace activities of the ex-Teamster boss just before he disappeared, a source said today.

Hoffa vanished a week ago after he left for a scheduled luncheon meeting at a fashionable suburban restaurant.

A man who identified himself as Hoffa's foster son, Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, told a Detroit television station that he, O'Brien, was safe. But he offered no explanation for the fact he hadn't talked to the Hoffa family since last Thursday.

FBI officials said O'Brien is one of several persons they would like to talk with, although there was no search for the 41-year-old union organizer who was raised by Hoffa from the age of 3.

It was not known precisely who else the FBI sought to interview.

The FBI refused to discuss Hoffa's notes, which were offered by his family. But a source close to the investigation said the material was "one of numerous" leads the bureau was pursuing.

A source said the notes include the names of union officials, business associates and politicians acquainted with Hoffa.

Like Hoffa, the skilled contract bargainer, his family thinks that money talks.

The family posted a $200,000 reward Tuesday for information revealing the whereabouts "and-or leading to the safe return" of the missing former Teamsters union president and announced that persons wanting to add to the stipend could send money to "The Jimmy Hoffa Reward Fund."

Contrary to some published reports, Jay E. Bailey, the FBI's chief investigator, said the bureau is working under the assumption that Hoffa is alive.

Bailey said, "We have no information that he is alive, but we have none that he is dead, either. We have no information."

A theory drifting through Detroit was that Hoffa was victim of someone who feared he might assist a federal investigation of union activities. Hoffa appeared before a grand jury earlier this summer and pleaded the Fifth Amendment — unusual for the man who always prided himself on taking on one-and-all tough government queries.

It also was reported that O'Brien could be a key man in the federal probe.

A man who identified himself as O'Brien phoned WXYZ-TV Tuesday night and said that he was safe. Earlier, Hoffa's son, Detroit attorney James P. Hoffa, said he last heard from O'Brien last Thursday — the day after Hoffa disappeared.

"We're trying to find him," the younger Hoffa said.

Friends said it is not unusual for O'Brien to disappear for a few days. But they were surprised that he was missing now because he was very close to Hoffa and could be expected to stay with the family.

The man who called WXYZ-TV said he is away on union business, then declined to discuss Hoffa's disappearance.

Phantom 'Candidate' Running For Mayor

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Omaha's 1977 mayoral campaign is off to an early start, or is it?

Miki Urges U.S. Stand In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japanese Prime Minister Takeo Miki today cautioned the United States against any sudden change in the U.S. commitment to defend South Korea, saying the stability of Asia is at stake.

"We view the continued presence of American troops in the Republic of Korea as an important contribution to Korean peace and to Asian stability," Miki said. "We trust there will be no sudden change in this U.S. policy."

His remarks were prepared for a National Press Club luncheon which followed two days of talks with President Ford on global economic and security problems.

Speaking on the 30th anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, Miki noted that modern Japan is a nonmilitary state under its constitution and by "the deep-rooted convictions of its people."

"We have foresworn the acquisition of offensive weapons and will never acquire nuclear weapons," he said. "A rearmad Japan or a nuclear-armed Japan would only create fear and instability among our neighbors."

He also said he expects Japan will ratify the nuclear nonproliferation treaty in the near future.

firm was asked to design and erect the signs by an agency that asked to remain anonymous.

"The agency has assured me he is a real live person," said Johnson, adding that he has been doing business for about 10 years with the agency involved.

He said there didn't seem to be anything unscrupulous or illegal about the ad campaign, so he felt obligated to take the order.

"I don't know Mr. Haubenschild," he said, "I was told that his identity and other information will be made known later this month."

If Haubenschild really intends to run for the office now held by Mayor Edward Zorinsky, he had better check the rules.

Haubenschild is not a registered voter in Omaha, a must to become mayor. And spokesmen for the Douglas County Republican and Democratic Committees are questioning the legality of the signs because they don't say who is paying for the political advertising.

Beyond that, no one at either Democratic or Republican headquarters has ever heard of him. He is not listed in the telephone directories for the past five years, and he does not have a car registered in Douglas County.

An official of one major Omaha advertising firm says he thinks the whole thing is part of a project to test the community's awareness of outdoor advertising.

"The signs are probably testing the power of billboards, and later someone will make a survey in the community asking if people know Jim Haubenschild," the advertising executive said.

Whoever is undertaking the campaign must be serious or rich, because the signs each cost about $100 per month, according to Johnson.

Bond Issue Petitions Filed By Gov. Rhodes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes planned to submit 2,015,076 signatures to the secretary of state today in an effort to get his four economic proposals on the fall ballot.

A minimum of 307,202 signatures validated by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown are needed to put the proposals to a vote by the populace. Rhodes said he was filing 63 per cent more signatures than necessary.

Brown said it would take several weeks to check Rhodes signatures.

Rhodes said the signatures came from the state's 88 counties. He said passage of the proposals would help eliminate unemployment for 600,000 Ohioans.

Rhodes' refusal to go along with any substantial changes by the legislature miffed Democrats, particularly in the Senate where some members objected to the size of his proposed multi-billion dollar bond issues and the taxes that would be hiked to pay them off.

Even if the signatures go beyond the required 307,202, there remains a requirement for each to be checked by county election boards to determine if they are valid. Only qualified voters are permitted to sign such papers.

Secretary Brown said the check by the boards could take two or three weeks, and possibly longer. After this is done, if the petitioners are short, then the law provides another 10 days to make up the deficiency.

Former State Rep. Keith McNamara of Columbus, a spokesman for Ohioans for Jobs and Progress, said the petitions met the stipulation that the signatures come from voters in at least half of the 88 counties.

He said that requirement, along with the fact that signers had to affix their signatures on one sheet for each of the four issues, was ignored by many who said they felt the issues had been less than enthusiastically received among Ohio's citizens. "That added significantly to our efforts," he said.

Rhodes, if successful in getting his propositions on the ballot, will ask Ohioans to authorize:

—A $2.75 billion bond issue to finance massive improvements in cities and municipalities all across the state, the bonds to be paid off over 30 years with a seven tenths of a per cent increase in the existing four per cent sales tax.

—A $1.75 billion bond issue for all types of transportation, bonds to be retired over three decades with a nine tenths of a cent boost in Ohio's seven cents a gallon gasoline tax.

—A tax abatement plan to forgive taxes over long periods for industries locating in or expanding existing facilities in Ohio.

—An amendment to the Ohio Constitution to clarify the right of the House Development Board to make grants and back loans to provide housing for low and moderate income families.

Senate Panel Studies Energy Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Senate subcommittee was called into session today to consider a House-approved state energy bill that snarled last Friday's planned summer adjournment of the legislature.

Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, the chairman, said he was hopeful the three-member panel can reach an agreement on a bill before the full Senate comes back into session Thursday afternoon.

The subcommittee is considering the compromise measure which popped out of the House shortly before midnight last Friday, after picking up the endorsement of Republicans along with other energy proposals.

Gov. James A. Rhodes has endorsed the House compromise, urging prompt approval so that he can sign it into law. Part of the measure would authorize the state to help gas burning industries convert to coal, possibly helping ease a severe natural gas shortage expected next winter.

However, the Senate — which refused to go along with the House decision to approve the bill with only one hearing — wants to consider as well some of the provisions that were included in other pending legislation.

O'Shaughnessy said those provisions duplicate some that are in the House measure, but that he feels the subcommittee should review "the whole package." Senators probably will insist they have "input" into whatever passes.

The subcommittee is hopeful it can report back an agreed bill to the full Senate Energy and Environment Committee, which O'Shaughnessy also heads, by the time the Senate convenes Thursday.

House members are on call to return to the capitol if the upper chamber approves a bill in a form other than the one they passed. The issue could wind up in a conference committee, further delaying the vacation lawmakers had scheduled to run from Aug. 1 to Sept. 10.

Other than the coal conversion program, the bill's other provisions include a property tax abatement scheme to try to lure a big Coalcon gasification demonstration plant into southeast Ohio, as well as other types of state subsidies to spur the search for new energy sources.

The bipartisan House agreement provides for a new state energy agency of five members to be appointed by Rhodes, with the consent of the Senate, along with four members of the legislature who would serve in an ex officio, non-voting capacity.

Council Approves Ordinances; Hears From City Residents

Three ordinances were passed by Circleville City Council during its regular meeting Tuesday. Two transferred funds and one authorized the sale of a truck at public auction.

In addition to legislative action members of council listened to two separate delegations of citizens who were seeking solutions to problems their respective areas faced.

Mrs. James River, 520 Lawnwood Court, informed council that many residents of the Garden City area would prefer metal light posts instead of wood when the proposed street lights are installed in the area.

According to Mrs. River, most of the property owners would be willing to pay the additional cost of the metal poles through an assessment.

She is currently circulating a petition which would affirm the willingness of the signers to pay the added assessment and asked council to delay installation until she could present the petitions.

Fourth ward councilman Dixie Watters objected to Mrs. River's proposal. "They are asking the city to run a collection agency which I don't like," Watters stated. "If they objected to the type of poles that were to be used, they should have attended one of the three council meetings when the legislation was read prior to its passage."

City service director Atwood Jones told council that he was under the impression there would be an added yearly cost for metal poles, as well as an additional installation fee. He also explained that if the city decides to proceed with Mrs. River's request, that all property owners who benefit would have to be assessed even if they didn't want to pay the additional cost for metal poles.

City solicitor John Adkins said that before council can consider the assessment method of payment, petitions signed by at least 75 per cent of the property owners must be presented. Councilman at large David Crawford also explained that there would be a delay in the installation of the lights because public hearings would be required.

Mrs. Emmett Evans, 310 Watt St., served as spokesman for a group from Watt and High Street areas. She explained the neighborhood in question has been infested with roaches and rodents since a fire that occurred June 6 at 316 Watt St.

Mrs. Evans stated the Pickaway County Health Department had been contacted and had made an investigation of the problem. The owners had been ordered to fumigate the property and had done so on two different occasions. However, the fumigations have not cured the problem.

Instead, according to Mrs. Evans, when the building was fumigated, it simply drove the roaches to adjacent properties and other property owners in the area have been forced to fumigate their houses.

The delegation expressed the opinion that the property should be condemned and the owners ordered to raze it to eradicate the source of the problem.

Fire chief Mike Brown explained that while he has the authority to order the house repaired, as long as the owners are making a reasonable attempt to repair it there is nothing else he can do. He said that in his opinion a condemnation of the property would not be upheld by the courts.

Second ward councilman John Jenkins told the delegation it was not within the jurisdiction of council to condemn property or order it repaired or fumigated. He suggested the delegation meet again with the county health board or go to the state health department for the answer to the problem.

Mayor Frank Barnhill and Fire Chief Brown assured the delegation they will contact the health department to see what further action can be taken to eliminate the problem.

The ordinance transferring money were $750 from the Federal General Revenue Sharing Trust Fund to the service department demolition account and $500 from the general fund to the Municipal Court Acting judges account.

First Ward Councilman David Goldschmidt who heads council's finance committee, again warned council and other city officials the general fund is dangerously low.

He said that if the city has to pay acting judges in municipal court for any period of time, the general fund will be completely depleted. He ex-

Security Council Opens Talks On Vietnams, South Korea

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Security Council today begins public debate on a topic it has been quarreling over privately for the past week — how to deal with United Nations membership applications from the two Vietnams and South Korea.

A council meeting on the applications called for this afternoon was expected to produce more backstage bickering over whether the three applications should be taken up together or separately.

The United States supported the South Korean bid. But there was a danger that the two Communist permanent members — China and Russia — might veto it.

There had been speculation the United States might use its veto power to force a package deal, so the Communists could not win approval for the two Vietnams without letting in South Korea.

Separate consideration would make it harder for the United States to use the threat of vetoing the Vietnamese applications.

At their first news conference here

Tuesday, the new Vietnamese U.N. observers charged that the United States wanted all three applications on one agenda "so as to make a package deal."

Ambassadors Nguyen Van Luu of North Vietnam and Dinh Ba Thi of South Vietnam, in a joint statement, called the U.S. position the main obstacle to Vietnamese memberships.

They said the council should not even consider South Korea's application, since North Korea was against it, and they called for the withdrawal of the "nearly 50,000 U.S. troops in South Korea."

In about 2½ hours of private talks the Vietnams' nonaligned supporters wanted the agenda for the first council meeting on the applications to list only South Vietnam, while the United States said it should list all three.

Despite the lack of agreement, Council President Shizuo Saito of Japan called the council meeting and told reporters he was asking Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim to work out the agenda by telephone from Austria where he is vacationing.

DISCOVERED DAMAGE—Robert Waites found that the steel support of a bridge over Turkey Run Creek on the Circleville-Winchester Rd. has been snapped in two sections. Waites contacted the Pickaway County Engineer's Office and the section of road, north of the Ashville-Fairfield Rd., was closed until a determination can be made. However, Waites, who lives close to the badly damaged bridge, noted that numerous drivers have failed to heed the warning signs, moving them from the roadway to continue their journey. The support appears to have been hit by heavy machinery.

DISCOVERED DAMAGE—Robert Waites found that the steel support of a bridge over Turkey Run Creek on the Circleville-Winchester Rd. has been snapped in two sections. Waites contacted the Pickaway County Engineer's Office and the section of road, north of the Ashville-Fairfield Rd., was closed until a determination can be made. However, Waites, who lives close to the badly damaged bridge, noted that numerous drivers have failed to heed the warning signs, moving them from the roadway to continue their journey. The support appears to have been hit by heavy machinery.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today after making another brief and half-hearted rally attempt.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up about 3 points at mid-morning, showed only a .16 gain at 810.31 by noon. Gainers trailed losers by about a 4-3 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was moderate. Analysts said it appeared the market was still handcuffed by concern that rising interest rates and inflation would stall the expected recovery from the recession.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost .28 to 87.05. Still looming over the market was the government's report due Thursday on the July wholesale price index. Since late last month Wall Street has been bracing for a substantial rise in the index.

The NYSE's composite index slipped .14 to 45.95.

Japanese Terrorists Seek Landing Site

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Five armed Japanese Red Army terrorists, still holding the U.S. consul and 14 other hostages, waited at the airport today to fly to another country. Belgian radio reported that Libya had turned down their request to land there.

A Malaysian government spokesman said earlier Libya had given its permission. The Belgian radio broadcast in Brussels gave no source for its report.

The Japan Air Lines DC8 which the terrorists and their captives had boarded several hours earlier remained on the ground here though the Malaysian spokesman had said shortly after 4 a.m. EDT that it was expected to take off in an hour or two.

The terrorists, masked and armed with automatic revolvers and hand grenades, left behind 28 of the hostages they had held in the U.S. Embassy since they invaded the building Monday.

One of the hostages said the terrorists said farewell to the 28 captives with, "Sayonara. We are very sorry we had to do this to you."

Nine others were freed earlier. Four persons had been wounded during the two days.

The raiders left the 12-story building that houses the Embassy in separate groups, each in control of some of the hostages who walked to a waiting bus with their hands clasped behind their heads.

Police motorcycles flanked the bus for the 14-mile drive to the airport, where heavy security was enforced. Among the hostages taken to the airport were U.S. Consul Robert C. Stebbins and Swedish Charge d'Affaires Fredrik Bergenstrahle.

At the airport the terrorists joined five radicals freed from prisons in Japan and flown to Kuala Lumpur on Tuesday on board a Japan Air Lines DC8 in response to the raiders' demands. Four of the freed convicts were also members of the Red Army, a fanatical left-wing group, while the other was a member of a separate organization.

The terrorists boarded the plane while their five colleagues continued negotiations in an airport lounge with Malaysian officials on a possible destination.

Lost Lottery Ticket Means $15,000 Gone

MOUNT LIBERTY, Ohio (AP) — Jerry Compton figures he's out only 50 cents.

But the winning lottery ticket he lost guaranteed him $15,020, and, with a little better luck, it could have brought home $1.3 million in state lottery earnings.

Here's what happened to Compton on the road from riches to rags:

Last Thursday, the Penn Central employe and some companions stopped in a local tavern at the time that week's lottery numbers were being announced.

Not only did Compton's ticket qualify him for the Buckeye 300, which guarantees winners at least $15,000 and up to $300,000, but he was a $20 winner as well. That would make him eligible for the periodic millionaire drawings, or one of several smaller cash prizes.

Planned trips include, Cincinnati Reds Baseball Game, Aug. 11; picnic, swimming and skating party at Gold Cliff Park, Aug. 19; King's Island, Aug. 21; "Tecumseh," Aug. 26; picnic, swimming and skating party at Gold Cliff Park, Aug. 28.

AMC Reports Smaller Profits

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. said today its earnings during the April-June quarter fell 47 per cent from a year ago to $10.1 million, or 33 cents a share.

Although down sharply from the year-earlier period, the earnings reversed three prior consecutive quarterly losses, including a record $47.8 million loss in the first quarter of this year.

AMC is the last of the four U.S. automakers to report its results for the April-June period. All four have reported improvements over the disastrous first quarter when the industry had its first aggregate loss since the Great Depression 40 years ago.

AMC earned $19 million, or 62 cents a share, in the spring quarter of 1974.

CIA Makes Profit On Front Operations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency has made significant profits on two of its front operations, CIA Director William E. Colby testified today.

Colby told the House intelligence committee in prepared testimony that the CIA made considerable profits from Air America, an airline that aided CIA efforts in Southeast Asia, and from a CIA pension fund.

Air America is being disposed of while the pension fund continues to operate, although Colby said the profits have been turned into the Treasury since 1973. Colby did not specify the profit levels.

Most of the CIA's front operations, which the agency calls proprietaries, have been unprofitable, the director said.

"I foresee a continuing need to use the proprietary mechanism to further accomplishment of agency operations," Colby said.

Colby defined proprietaries as "apparently commercial entities that are in reality controlled by the agency." He said, "Such companies provide cover and support for clandestine activities and enable us to carry out administrative tasks discreetly."

Most proprietaries have fewer than ten employees, but "a very few of our former proprietaries, such as Radio Free Europe and Air America, have been fairly large entities."

The pension fund was described by Colby as "a financial enterprise which enables the agency to administer certain sensitive trusts, annuities, escrows and insurance arrangements without attribution to the agency. It enables us to insure with a controlled company some of our activities we could not expose to regular insurance companies. It enables us to pay annuities to individuals whose links with the U.S. government must remain secret."

In the past, the proprietary companies retained their profits, Colby said. The intelligence chief said that by 1973 "accumulated profits amounted to a considerable sum" so the excess was reported to Congress and used to reduce the amount appropriated.

However, the CIA's general counsel advised that this did not constitute the full appropriations process and "subsequent profits have been and will be delivered to the Treasury," Colby said.

A Pentagon official was quoted as telling the committee Tuesday that two U.S. intelligence agencies split over whether Egyptian troop movements in 1973 meant maneuvers or an attack.

Dr. Robert C. Hall, assistant secretary of defense for intelligence, said publicly that the advance intelligence also was discounted by Israeli officials. The Israeli officials have admitted they were caught by surprise by the Egyptian attack, which set off a Mideast war.

Hall refused to say if the disagreement was between the U.S. military intelligence agencies and the CIA. Colby also refused Tuesday night to say if the CIA was one of the two agencies.

Higher Liquor Taxes Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Department of Health, Education and Welfare staff paper proposes boosting liquor taxes and restricting liquor advertising as part of the effort to reduce death and disease caused by alcoholic beverages.

The still-confidential report also suggests federal limits on the tar and nicotine content of cigarettes to cut the toll of cancer, heart and lung diseases.

The liquor and cigarette proposals would require congressional approval. An HEW source who has read the paper said it does not recommend legislation but simply "lists things that could be done if someone wanted to do them."

Animal Bill Tip Of Iceberg

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Barney Quilter, D-47 Toledo, says Ohioans should know how their tax money is being spent, and that's why he sponsored a bill which is "not what you would call a major piece of legislation."

The bill passed by the General Assembly and sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes last week, requires the School of Veterinary Medicine of Ohio State University to report at the end of five years on its dog research program. "But, there really are some important implications," Quilter said. The Toledo lawmaker said his bill resulted from legislation passed in 1973, which permits county auditors to raise dog and kennel registration fees. The law required each county to pay OSU 10 cents a dog to support research on dog diseases which are transmittable to humans. "I had a gnawing feeling about that bill at the time and I raised some questions on the floor of the house," said Quilter. "Then, after it passed, I decided to conduct some research on how much money might be raised." That research, conducted by Richard C. Murray, his administrative assistant, indicated as much as a half million dollars could go to Ohio State within a five-year period.

"And, there was no accountability," Quilter said. "It was a continuous appropriation, which would have been lost in a maze of bureaucracy. "No one knows how much money is being collected in such hidden taxes. There are many examples in state government."

"My chief complaint, with this situation and a lot others over the years," said Quilter, "is not the millions of dollars we spend on major projects. I'm sick and tired of the individual taxpayer being nicked and dimed to death, especially when no one knows what the money is being used for."

Quilter insisted the original legislation is valuable and, in the long run, the resulting research could make valuable health contributions.

"But, appropriating such funds without providing for periodic accountability to, and review by, the General Assembly is contrary to every principle of efficient and open management of public spending," he said.

Burger Urges Tough Rules

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger today urged state supreme courts to take the lead in enforcing ethical standards in the legal profession.

In an address at the 27th annual meeting of the National Conference of Chief Justices, Burger said:

"There has been an almost complete lack of judicial or professional regulation of members of the bar, and this has led to great tolerance for misbehavior and misconduct."

He said studies indicated that "unwillingness of state supreme courts to assume responsibility" was a major factor in the situation.

"This is one of the most crucial problems of our profession and of the courts in particular," he said.

"The initiative must come from the highest court of each state," Burger added.

Case No. 74 JUL 497
COURT OF COMMON PLEAS
JUVENILE DIVISION
The State of Ohio, Pickaway County

In the Matter of Angela Haskins
An Alleged Neglected Child
Said Ronnie Haskins, the father of said child and any other person having custody or control of said child or with whom the same may be, to personally be and appear with said child before the Judge of the Juvenile Court on the 19th day of August, 1975, at 1:30 P.M. at the Court House in said County in the matter of said child and this shall be in no wise omit under penalty of the law. A person so cited, and failing to appear may be punished as in any other cases for contempt of court.

The nature of the complaint in the cases is as follows: The Pickaway County Children Services Board request a change of custody of Angela Sue Haskins from Temporary care to Permanent custody. Permanent custody divests the parents of all legal rights and privileges.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said court this 4th day of August, 1975.

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) Can there be advantages for a married couple filing separate returns?

(A) If you and your spouse each had income for the year, you may pay less tax by filing separate returns. For example, if one of you has moderate income and substantial medical expenses while the other has little or no medical expense, you may increase your total medical deduction by filing separately.

If you live in a community property state (Arizona, California, Idaho, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas and Washington) it may be advantageous to file separately.

To find out which filing method is better for you, compute your tax both ways or contact the nearest IRS Taxpayer Assistance office.

(Q) Do I have to withhold income tax or FICA (social security) tax for domestic workers I employ in my home?

(A) No. You are not required to withhold income tax for domestic workers in your home. However, you and your employee may agree to withhold income tax. The agreement must be in writing and attached to your employee's Form W-4 withholding statement.

FICA tax is due if you pay the worker cash wages of $50 or more during a calendar quarter. The FICA tax rate for 1975 is 11.7 per cent of the wages paid each employee up to $14,100. Of this amount, one-half (5.85 per cent of the wages paid) may be withheld from the employee's wages, or you may pay the total amount yourself.

(Q) I bought some raffle tickets for a church raffle. Can I deduct the amount as a charitable contribution?

(A) No. Although the money from the raffle may be used by a tax-exempt charitable institution, amounts you pay to purchase raffle tickets or to engage in other games of chance are not deductible contributions. They are wagering losses.

If you win the raffle, you must report your winnings as income, regardless of any losses you incur. If you itemize deductions on Schedule A, Form 1040, you may deduct your gambling losses incurred during the year, such as raffle tickets, to the extent they equal your winnings.

You may not deduct gambling losses if you take the standard deduction or use the tax tables to compute your tax.

(Q) A private firm prepared my 1974 tax return. Can I deduct this amount on my return for 1975?

(A) Yes. Tax assistance fees are normally deducted on the tax return for the year the expense is paid. The fee for preparing your 1974 return was paid in 1975 and should be claimed as a miscellaneous deduction on Schedule A of Form 1040 for 1975.

Abutilon is a genus of tender shrubs in the Mallow family, commonly known as flowering maple.

Elton John Concert Draws Wild Response

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elton John, rock music's reigning superstar, leaped into a pile of some 30,000 postcards and declared, "This is a bit mind boggling!"

The cards were from California fans wanting a chance to pay $25 each for tickets to John's upcoming charity concert at the Troubadour nightclub, which seats only 250 persons per show.

John, capering on the stage clad in a green satin suit, diamond bracelet and green heartshaped eyeglasses, picked 500 "winners" from the pile Monday.

He will do shows on three nights, Aug. 25, 26 and 27, to raise $150,000 for the Jules Stein Eye Clinic at UCLA. The first show, "by invitation only," will be priced at $250 a seat.

"Because of my eyesight being bad, I thought this would obviously be a good thing to do," John told reporters. "I wanted to do a benefit show in America.... I wear eyeglasses and Mr. Stein has a very good eye clinic."

John's trademark is his collection of 200 pair of gaudy eyeglasses — some diamondstudded, others mink-lined. But John confesses that even with glasses he can't see his audience most of the time.

"My left eye is larger than my right which makes me quite shortsighted," he said. "I can see the audience only if it's an open-air concert in daylight. At night, if there is no spotlight, I can see the first two or three rows."

Now a multimillionaire, the 28-year-old British star said he's enjoying success but "I don't really think about money. I don't know how much I have...."

"Since I was four or five years old, I knew that I wanted to be a musician. I never wanted to be a train driver or a fireman...."

Of life at the top, John said, "It has its ups and downs, just like being a bank teller."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Rep. Barney Quilter, D-47 Toledo, says Ohioans should know how their tax money is being spent, and that's why he sponsored a bill which is "not what you would call a major piece of legislation."

The bill passed by the General Assembly and sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes last week, requires the School of Veterinary Medicine of Ohio State University to report at the end of five years on its dog research program. "But, there really are some important implications," Quilter said. The Toledo lawmaker said his bill resulted from legislation passed in 1973, which permits county auditors to raise dog and kennel registration fees. The law required each county to pay OSU 10 cents a dog to support research on dog diseases which are transmittable to humans.

"I had a gnawing feeling about that bill at the time and I raised some questions on the floor of the house," said Quilter. "Then, after it passed, I decided to conduct some research on how much money might be raised." That research, conducted by Richard C. Murray, his administrative assistant, indicated as much as a half million dollars could go to Ohio State within a five-year period.

"And, there was no accountability," Quilter said. "It was a continuous appropriation, which would have been lost in a maze of bureaucracy."

"No one knows how much money is being collected in such hidden taxes. There are many examples in state government."

"My chief complaint, with this situation and a lot others over the years," said Quilter, "is not the millions of dollars we spend on major projects. I'm sick and tired of the individual taxpayer being nicked and dimed to death, especially when no one knows what the money is being used for."

Quilter insisted the original legislation is valuable and, in the long run, the resulting research could make valuable health contributions.

"But, appropriating such funds without providing for periodic accountability to, and review by, the General Assembly is contrary to every principle of efficient and open management of public spending," he said.

Burger Urges Tough Rules

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger today urged state supreme courts to take the lead in enforcing ethical standards in the legal profession.

In an address at the 27th annual meeting of the National Conference of Chief Justices, Burger said:

"There has been an almost complete lack of judicial or professional regulation of members of the bar, and this has led to great tolerance for misbehavior and misconduct."

He said studies indicated that "unwillingness of state supreme courts to assume responsibility" was a major factor in the situation.

"This is one of the most crucial problems of our profession and of the courts in particular," he said.

"The initiative must come from the highest court of each state," Burger added.

1040 Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

(Q) Can there be advantages for a married couple filing separate returns?

(A) If you and your spouse each had income for the year, you may pay less tax by filing separate returns. For example, if one of you has moderate income and substantial medical expenses while the other has little or no medical expense, you may increase your total medical deduction by filing separately.

If you live in a community property state (Arizona, California, Idaho, Louisiana, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas and Washington) it may be advantageous to file separately.

To find out which filing method is better for you, compute your tax both ways or contact the nearest IRS Taxpayer Assistance office.

(Q) Do I have to withhold income tax or FICA (social security) tax for domestic workers I employ in my home?

(A) No. You are not required to withhold income tax for domestic workers in your home. However, you and your employee may agree to withhold income tax. The agreement must be in writing and attached to your employee's Form W-4 withholding statement.

FICA tax is due if you pay the worker cash wages of $50 or more during a calendar quarter. The FICA tax rate for 1975 is 11.7 per cent of the wages paid each employee up to $14,100. Of this amount, one-half (5.85 per cent of the wages paid) may be withheld from the employee's wages, or you may pay the total amount yourself.

(Q) I bought some raffle tickets for a church raffle. Can I deduct the amount as a charitable contribution?

(A) No. Although the money from the raffle may be used by a tax-exempt charitable institution, amounts you pay to purchase raffle tickets or to engage in other games of chance are not deductible contributions. They are wagering losses.

If you win the raffle, you must report your winnings as income, regardless of any losses you incur. If you itemize deductions on Schedule A, Form 1040, you may deduct your gambling losses incurred during the year, such as raffle tickets, to the extent they equal your winnings.

You may not deduct gambling losses if you take the standard deduction or use the tax tables to compute your tax.

(Q) A private firm prepared my 1974 tax return. Can I deduct this amount on my return for 1975?

(A) Yes. Tax assistance fees are normally deducted on the tax return for the year the expense is paid. The fee for preparing your 1974 return was paid in 1975 and should be claimed as a miscellaneous deduction on Schedule A of Form 1040 for 1975.

Elton John Concert Draws Wild Response

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Elton John, rock music's reigning superstar, leaped into a pile of some 30,000 postcards and declared, "This is a bit mind boggling!"

The cards were from California fans wanting a chance to pay $25 each for tickets to John's upcoming charity concert at the Troubadour nightclub, which seats only 250 persons per show.

John, capering on the stage clad in a green satin suit, diamond bracelet and green heart-shaped eyeglasses, picked 500 "winners" from the pile Monday.

He will do shows on three nights, Aug. 25, 26 and 27, to raise $150,000 for the Jules Stein Eye Clinic at UCLA. The first show, "by invitation only," will be priced at $250 a seat.

"Because of my eyesight being bad, I thought this would obviously be a good thing to do," John told reporters. "I wanted to do a benefit show in America.... I wear eyeglasses and Mr. Stein has a very good eye clinic."

John's trademark is his collection of 200 pair of gaudy eyeglasses — some diamondstudded, others mink-lined. But John confesses that even with glasses he can't see his audience most of the time.

"My left eye is larger than my right which makes me quite shortsighted," he said. "I can see the audience only if it's an open-air concert in daylight. At night, if there is no spotlight, I can see the first two or three rows."

Now a multimillionaire, the 28-year-old British star said he's enjoying success but "I don't really think about money. I don't know how much I have...."

"Since I was four or five years old, I knew that I wanted to be a musician. I never wanted to be a train driver or a fireman...."

Of life at the top, John said, "It has its ups and downs, just like being a bank teller."

Requiem For Liberty

The flickering light of liberty in India appears about to be snuffed out.

In the latest of a series of moves, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, India's prime minister, has asked the Indian parliament to pass retroactive amendments to national law that will erase sections under which she was convicted of illegal elections activities.

After more than 100 years of rule by the British Raj, India finally gained her independence in 1948, only 27 years ago. The independence was not without price. Mohandas K. Gandhi, non-violent leader of the movement, was assassinated on Jan. 30, 1948, and did not live to see his nation gain her liberty.

Now, Mrs. Indira Gandhi appears to be leading her country down the path to dictatorship, much as Adolf Hitler did in Germany in 1934.

Of course, Mrs. Gandhi claims the various oppressions she has visited on her people are necessary to preserve order and revive India's faltering economy. Again, the similarities with Hitler are startling.

Since she was convicted of elections law violation in June, Mrs. Gandhi has jailed her political opponents and suspended many of the Indian's people's rights in the name law and order.

The lesson of Mrs. Gandhi's shameful actions remains clear. Freedom is never guaranteed when a strong-willed leader is determined to remain in power at whatever cost.

Simply 'Common Sense'

By JIM BISHOP

The first American bestseller was written by an immigrant Englishman named Thomas Paine. It was published in Philadelphia, in January, 1776, and sold 110,000 copies within 90 days.

Paine insisted that his royalties be used to buy mittens for the Continental Army. The 22,000 words he penned with a quill did more to incite the American Colonies to revolt than anything achieved by George Washington or the Second Continental Congress.

"Some writers have so confounded society with government," he wrote, "as to leave little or no distinction among them; whereas they are not only different, but have different origins. Society is produced by our wants and government by our wickedness; the former promotes our happiness positively by uniting our affections; the latter negatively by restraining our vices.

"The one encourages intercourse, the other creates distinctions. The first is a patron, the last a punisher. Society in every state is a blessing, but government even in its best state is but a necessary evil; in its worst state an intolerable one . . .

"Government, like dress, is the badge of lost innocence; the palaces of kings are built on the bowers of paradise. For, were the impulses of conscience clear, uniform and irresistibly obeyed, man would need no other lawgiver; but that not being the case, he finds it necessary to surrender up a part of his property to furnish means for protection of the rest . . .

"Wherefore, security being the true design and end of government, it unanswerably follows that whatever form thereof appears most likely to ensure it to us with the least expense and greatest benefit, is preferable to all others.

"I draw my idea of the form of government from a principle in nature which no art can overturn — to wit, the more simple anything is the less liable it is to be disordered, and the easier repaired when disordered . . .

"But there is another distinction for which no truly natural or religious reason can be assigned, and that is the distinction of men into Kings and Subjects. Male and female are the distinctions of nature; good and bad the distinctions of Heaven; but how a race of men came into the world so exalted above the rest, and distinguished like some new species, is worth inquiring into . . .

"In the early ages of the world there were no kings, the consequence of which was there were no wars; it is the pride of kings which throws mankind into confusion . . .

"Government by kings is the most prosperous invention the Devil ever set on foot for the promotion of idolatry. The heathens paid divine honors to their deceased kings, and the Christian world has improved the plan by doing the same to their living ones . . .

"To the evil of monarchy we have added that of hereditary succession; and as the first is a degradation and lessening of ourselves, so the second, claimed as a matter of right, is an insult and an imposition on posterity.

"For all men being originally equals, no one by birth could have a right to set up his own family in perpetual preference to all others forever . . . Nature disapproves of it, otherwise she would not so frequently turn it into ridicule by giving mankind an ass for a lion . . .

Paine calls the Colonies to war against England:

"The Sun never shined on a cause of greater worth. 'Tis not the affair of a city, a county, a province or a kingdom; but of a continent, of at least one-eighth part of the inhabitable globe.

"'Tis not the concern of a day, a year or an age . . . Now is the seed time of continental union, faith and honor. The least fracture now will be like a name engraved with the point of a pin on the tender rind of a young oak; the wound would enlarge with the tree, and posterity would read it in full grown characters . . .

The marching logic of Thomas Paine's words taught the timid colonists that they were a continent fighting a small island far away. It was a long exhausting fight for 2,500,000 people.

But they won. Paine, who had been a repeated failure at every job he had in England, wrote "Common Sense" and died broke . . .

Today In History

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I developed varicose veins after the birth of my second child. I've been told that there is a new operation that can be done in the doctor's office.

My doctor doesn't know about this. Can you tell me more about it?

Mrs. H. H., S.C.

Dear Mrs. H.:

I cannot imagine who the "authority" was who gave you this information. I know of no surgical procedure for varicose veins that can be safely performed in the doctor's office.

Operations that tie off the veins, or strip the veins, are performed for maximum safety in hospitals.

Some small varicose veins can be treated in the doctor's office by the injection method. Special drugs that are injected directly into tiny varicose veins can obliterate them.

This procedure is not an effective substitute for the more comprehensive surgical treatment used for larger and more extensive varicose vein problems.

Far too many people are tempted by shortcut, magical cures when surgery is the simplest, safest and most beneficial approach to the problem of varicose veins.

Is it necessary to cauterize the nose when there is a tendency to nose bleeds?

Mr. R. U., Nev.

Dear Mr. U.:

Most nose bleeds, or "epistaxis," can be controlled by putting a large piece of absorbent cotton in the nose and firmly squeezing the nostrils.

Pressure should be kept for about 10 minutes, to allow for nature's protective clotting to occur. The cotton should be left for about half an hour so that this blood clot will not be dislocated.

Bleeding is caused by a broken blood vessel, usually about half an inch inside the nose. If the exact site of the bleeding is seen by the doctor he can cauterize this spot with silver nitrate, acetic acid or with an electric spark.

When repeated episodes of bleeding occur, there is a greater need for cauterization.

Occasionally, a large blood vessel deep inside the nose may break. Cauterization here is difficult, and nasal packing is used instead.

Farm Machinery Prices Skyrocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers pay for items used to produce the nation's food and fiber continue to go up due in part to sizeable increases in machinery costs the past year.

By July 15, the Agriculture Department's "prices paid" index was 86 per cent above its 1967 base used for comparison and 11 per cent above mid-July of last year.

The farm "prices received" index — a measure of what farmers get for things they produce — was up 87 per cent from its 1967 base, almost in line with the prices received indicator.

But prices that farmers get for commodities have been much more volatile than those they must pay out which have been grinding almost steadily upward for years.

Further, many of the items farmers buy — including livestock and feed — are produced or at least initially produced by other farmers. So when those products decline in price it means that other farmers have had their proceeds reduced.

The USDA monthly farm price report, issued last week, showed that prices farmers pay for feeder livestock — including calves or lightweight cattle from ranchers — decline 9 per cent from June 15 to July 15 and was down 5 per cent from a year earlier.

But prices of farm machinery, which are industrial products, have continued to climb, according to periodic surveys by USDA's Statistical Reporting Service. And machinery is as necessary an input as feeder cattle and the grain they must eat to be fattened for market.

As of June 15, the most recent figures available, a medium sized self-propelled combine used to harvest grain crops cost an average of $27,300 nationally, according to USDA figures. That was up 24.2 per cent from $20,700 on June 15,

As of June 15, the most recent figures available, a medium sized self-propelled combine used to harvest grain crops cost an average of $27,300 nationally, according to USDA figures. That was up 24.2 per cent from $20,700 on June 15, 1974. Further, the combine price was up 14 per cent from Dec. 15, just six months earlier, when it was $23,500.

A large tractor in the 110 to 129 horsepower range cost farmers nationally an average of $19,200 in June, up 19.8 per cent from $15,400 a year earlier and up 5.2 per cent from last December.

The figures showed that a four-row cultivator used for corn and other row crops was $1,520 in mid-June, up 15.8 per cent from $1,280 on June 15, 1974; a 7-foot mower was $1,040 up 15 per cent; and an automatic hay baler was $3,920, up 16.4 per cent. There were no listings for Dec. 15, 1974 for those items.

Even the most humble farm tools have risen sharply in cost. A four-tine pitchfork, for example, cost $9.64 on June 15 against $8.42 a year earlier, a gain of 12.7 per cent.

Agnew Bids For Beer

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is seeking a beer distributorship in East Texas, according to a spokesman for Coors Beer.

With professional golfer Doug Sanders of Houston, Agnew arrived at the Adolph Coors Co. brewery in a chauffeured black limousine Monday and Coors officials interviewed the two.

It was unclear why Sanders was with Agnew, but a Coors spokesman said Texas law requires that a person live in the state for three years before he can be granted a beer distributorship. A spokesman said several thousand persons have applied for four new franchises in Houston, and "Agnew is one of them." He said the applicants included former Texas Govs. John B. Connally and Allan Shivers.

Agnew and Sanders refused to answer reporters' questions. Agnew told one reporter and a photographer: "Why don't you guys get lost?"

Gasoline Prices Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of regular gasoline at the pump rose 3.1 cents a gallon in July, to a national average of 58.7 cents, a Federal Energy Administration survey shows.

At the same time, gasoline consumption, which has risen in the past at the rate of about 4.6 per cent a year, has slowed to 1.9 per cent in the past two years, the FEA said.

This translates into a saving of about 500,000 barrels a day from the amount that would have been burned if consumption had continued at its former rate.

The agency also reported Monday that its latest survey shows price increases in June for regular gasoline (1.3 cents higher than the May national average of 54.3), premium gasoline (up 1.3 cents from 59) and diesel fuel (up 1.1 cents at truck stops and 0.4 cents at service stations for a June average of 51.4).

Ten of 21 major oil companies also increased in June the price of home heating oil, but the FEA did not announce an average price.

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If the price-earnings ratio of stock is a reliable indicator of future business and economic prospects then Americans have reason to pause, ponder and probably become a little bit uneasy.

One year ago, when the economy was plunging into the deepest abyss since the 1930s, the P-E ratio of the Dow Jones Industrial Average was 8.4. At the beginning of this week it was almost the same — 8.8.

A P-E ratio is a judgment about the future earnings of a company. If the public is uncertain or pessimistic about a company's future it will be unwilling to pay a price many times the current earnings.

In contrast, if the company's and the economy's futures looks good, investors will be willing to bid up the price of the stock in order to get in on the action. The P-E ratio will rise.

During the expansion years of the 1960s the typical P-E ratio ranged from just under 14 to nearly 19. Expressing their confidence, investors were willing to pay 14 to 19 times current earnings to own stock.

The marketplace today does not reflect confidence or certainty, at least of the euphoric kind that occasionally emanates from some government officials and perhaps a few businessmen.

Investors are holding back, trying to assess the future, but apparently are unable to make up their minds. When such a situation exists the market either withers or buying and selling activity nearly match.

A random survey of market analysts' letters indicates that inflation and interest rates are high among the imponderables now confronting investors, just as they were a year ago.

When interest rates rise they add to the cost of doing business, and therefore lower profits. Moreover, high interest rates siphon money from stocks into bonds. The stock market becomes noncompetitive.

The rising prime interest rate therefore is acting like a flashing red light. Big institutional investors and sophisticated individuals refrain from committing themselves to stock on the chance the bond market might become better.

Inflation, of course, is bad news in many ways. It cuts into profits. It presages an eventual downturn in the economy. It makes it difficult for industry to plan.

Planning takes place best in a stable economy. No business wants to make long-term commitments of labor and capital only to find that the conditions that led to such plans were ephemeral.

Businessmen today have examples of that error all about them, most noticeably in the automotive industry, but also in retailing, banking, air travel and many more. They made their plans when times were good; they made their plans with insufficient information about the future.

Corporations understandably are wary of committing themselves to a future they cannot see, and that hesitancy is shared by those who would invest in them.

One year ago many analysts blamed the three I's — inflation, interest rates and impeachment — for creating uncertainty.

Now, despite all that has transpired in the economy, two of those I's still remain.

Encephalitis Fatal To 14

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Health officials say they will enlist the public's support in controlling an encephalitis outbreak which has killed 14 persons.

The number of suspected, probable and confirmed cases of the mosquito-carried disease rose to 123 Monday. Two additional deaths, those of Mary Wren, 73, and Thomas Edmond, 67, were reported in Greenville.

Dr. Durward Blakey, director of the state Board of Health's Disease Control Division, said the board will begin posting notices later this week in areas which have confirmed cases of the disease.

Residents will be asked to clean up lots and homes, to spray potential mosquito breeding areas with diesel or motor oil, to repair screens, empty containers where water has collected and to cut weeds.

Blakey said many areas lack mosquito abatement programs, and individuals will have to make a particular effort in these areas.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Aug. 6, the 218th day of 1975. There are 147 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1945, the atomic bomb was used for the first time in the U.S. bombing of Hiroshima, Japan.

On this date: In 1806, Napoleon Bonaparte ordered the dissolution of the Holy Roman Empire.

In 1825, Bolivia gained independence from Peru.

In 1914, the wife of President Woodrow Wilson died at the White House.

Also in 1914, the United States offered to serve as peace mediator at the beginning of the World War I.

In 1940, the World War II Battle of Africa began as Italian forces invaded British Somaliland.

Five years ago: The Soviet Union and West Germany reached accord on a treaty to foster peace in Europe.

One year ago: President Richard Nixon told his Cabinet he would not resign but would remain in office while the constitutional impeachment process ran its course.

Today's birthdays: Comedienne Lucille Ball is 64. Actor Robert Mitchum is 58.

Thought for today: Leave discontent alone, and she will shut her mouth and let you sing — James Whitcomb Riley, American poet, 1849-1916.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, General Philip Schuyler, reported to President John Hancock of the Continental Congress that sickness had disabled one-fifth of his troops and asked that a doctor be sent to Fort Ticonderoga from Albany.

Robert Terhune, Ohio Department of Agriculture director, Washington C.H., participated in ceremonies dedicating the new grandstand of Pickaway County Fair on opening night.

Andrew Starkey, Williamsport, and Ken Watters, paratroopers on leave from Yuma, Ariz., executed parachute jumps from Thomas Field west of Circleville. Starkey, jumping from 10,000 feet, landed within 100 yards of the drop target. Watters was recovered from the Scioto River banks where high winds had carried him off course in his landing.

Four local girls receiving diplomas from Mt. Carmel Hospital School of Nursing in Columbus were Carolyn Bell, Susan Smith, Gwynne Jenkins, all of them from Circleville and Dianne Schelb of Route 3.

A 16-year-old miss, Janey Hockman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hockman, Route 1, forged ahead of many veteran cooks to be awarded "Best of Show" in the yeast division of the baked goods department of the Fair.

One of the oldest crafts is model making. Museums have models of boats, household articles and tools made by ancient peoples more than 6,000 years ago. Today model making is a hobby for many people.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I developed varicose veins after the birth of my second child. I've been told that there is a new operation that can be done in the doctor's office.

My doctor doesn't know about this. Can you tell me more about it?

Mrs. H. H., S.C.

Dear Mrs. H.:

I cannot imagine who the "authority" was who gave you this information. I know of no surgical procedure for varicose veins that can be safely performed in the doctor's office.

Operations that tie off the veins, or strip the veins, are performed for maximum safety in hospitals.

Some small varicose veins can be treated in the doctor's office by the injection method. Special drugs that are injected directly into tiny varicose veins can obliterate them.

This procedure is not an effective substitute for the more comprehensive surgical treatment used for larger and more extensive varicose vein problems.

Far too many people are tempted by shortcut, magical cures when surgery is the simplest, safest and most beneficial approach to the problem of varicose veins. Is it necessary to cauterize the nose when there is a tendency to nose bleeds?

Mr. R. U., Nev.

Dear Mr. U.:

Most nose bleeds, or "epistaxis," can be controlled by putting a large piece of absorbent cotton in the nose and firmly squeezing the nostrils.

Pressure should be kept for about 10 minutes, to allow for nature's protective clotting to occur. The cotton should be left for about half an hour so that this blood clot will not be dislodged.

Bleeding is caused by a broken blood vessel, usually about half an inch inside the nose. If the exact site of the bleeding is seen by the doctor he can cauterize this spot with silver nitrate, acetic acid or with an electric spark.

When repeated episodes of bleeding occur, there is a greater need for cauterization.

Occasionally, a large blood vessel deep inside the nose may break. Cauterization here is difficult, and nasal packing is used instead.

Farm Machinery Prices Skyrocket

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers pay for items used to produce the nation's food and fiber continue to go up due in part to sizeable increases in machinery costs the past year.

By July 15, the Agriculture Department's "prices paid" index was 86 per cent above its 1967 base used for comparison and 11 per cent above mid-July of last year.

The farm "prices received" index — a measure of what farmers get for things they produce — was up 87 per cent from its 1967 base, almost in line with the prices received indicator.

But prices that farmers get for commodities have been much more volatile than those they must pay out which have been grinding almost steadily upward for years.

Further, many of the items farmers buy — including livestock and feed — are produced or at least initially produced by other farmers. So when those products decline in price it means that other farmers have had their proceeds reduced.

The USDA monthly farm price report, issued last week, showed that prices farmers pay for feeder livestock — including calves or lightweight cattle from ranchers — decline 9 per cent from June 15 to July 15 and was down 5 per cent from a year earlier.

But prices of farm machinery, which are industrial products, have continued to climb, according to periodic surveys by USDA's Statistical Reporting Service. And machinery is as necessary an input as feeder cattle and the grain they must eat to be fattened for market.

As of June 15, the most recent figures available, a medium sized self-propelled combine used to harvest grain crops cost an average of $27,300 nationally, according to USDA figures. That was up 24.2 per cent from $20,700 on June 15.

As of June 15, the most recent figures available, a medium sized self-propelled combine used to harvest grain crops cost an average of $27,300 nationally, according to USDA figures. That was up 24.2 per cent from $20,700 on June 15, 1974. Further, the combine price was up 14 per cent from Dec. 15, just six months earlier, when it was $23,500.

A large tractor in the 110 to 129 horsepower range cost farmers nationally an average of $19,200 in June, up 19.8 per cent from $15,400 a year earlier and up 5.2 per cent from last December.

The figures showed that a four-row cultivator used for corn and other row crops was $1,520 in mid-June, up 15.8 per cent from $1,280 on June 15, 1974; a 7-foot mower was $1,040 up 15 per cent; and an automatic hay baler was $3,920, up 16.4 per cent. There were no listings for Dec. 15, 1974 for those items.

Even the most humble farm tools have risen sharply in cost. A four-tine pitchfork, for example, cost $9.64 on June 15 against $8.42 a year earlier, a gain of 12.7 per cent.

Agnew Bids For Beer

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is seeking a beer distributorship in East Texas, according to a spokesman for Coors Beer.

With professional golfer Doug Sanders of Houston, Agnew arrived at the Adolph Coors Co. brewery in a chauffeured black limousine Monday and Coors officials interviewed the two.

It was unclear why Sanders was with Agnew, but a Coors spokesman said Texas law requires that a person live in the state for three years before he can be granted a beer distributorship. A spokesman said several thousand persons have applied for four new franchises in Houston, and "Agnew is one of them." He said the applicants included former Texas Govs. John B. Connally and Allan Shivers.

Agnew and Sanders refused to answer reporters' questions. Agnew told one reporter and a photographer: "Why don't you guys get lost?"

Gasoline Prices Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of regular gasoline at the pump rose 3.1 cents a gallon in July, to a national average of 58.7 cents, a Federal Energy Administration survey shows.

At the same time, gasoline consumption, which has risen in the past at the rate of about 4.6 per cent a year, has slowed to 1.9 per cent in the past two years, the FEA said.

This translates into a saving of about 500,000 barrels a day from the amount that would have been burned if consumption had continued at its former rate.

The agency also reported Monday that its latest survey shows price increases in June for regular gasoline (1.3 cents higher than the May national average of 54.3), premium gasoline (up 1.3 cents from 59) and diesel fuel (up 1.1 cents at truck stops and 0.4 cents at service stations for a June average of 51.4).

Ten of 21 major oil companies also increased in June the price of home heating oil, but the FEA did not announce an average price.

Big Tiremakers Report Sales Hike

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Tiremakers here report that tire sales are rebounding from last year's poor performance but that sales have yet to reach "normal" levels.

Free Press Forgotten By Nation?

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — As the United States moves into its Bicentennial celebrations, Americans "seem to have forgotten" the value of a free press, warned J. Edward Murray, associate editor of the Detroit Free Press.

Speaking to a futurology forum at the College of Mount St. Joseph here Tuesday, Murray said the U.S. leadership in the "free flow of world news" is in constant jeopardy.

He said attacks on the press "are more numerous now than at any time in the last two decades."

Lifting federal controls over the content of radio and television broadcasting would be "a fitting way to observe the Bicentennial," he added.

Murray, who is past president of both the American Society of Newspaper Editors and the Associated Press Managing Editors Association, reminded the audience of the example of former President Richard Nixon.

Nixon, he said, "used every resource at his command to subvert the free press, and most importantly, his own option to lie at will on prime time commandeered from the television networks."

Murray added that the free operation of American journalism also has been threatened in recent years by Congress, the courts and the American people themselves.

The analysis came from B.F. Goodrich Co. and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. both of whom Tuesday reported higher second-quarter earnings compared with those of the first quarter.

Although 1975 tire sales were below those of 1974, the companies said the market is improving and stems in a large part from motorists having waited so long to replace old tires during the recession.

Goodrich said the income from tire sales was "a little more than double last year's," and Goodyear spoke of "an impressive domestic performance" while declining to break it down into tires and other factors. Goodyear also credited earnings improvement to recent price increases of 2 to 6 per cent.

Industry-wide figures showed 61.3 million replacement passenger tires were shipped during the first six months of this year, compared with 64.5 million for the same period of 1974, a drop of about five per cent.

But in 1973, the high year, replacement shipments totaled 73.2 million tires, industry spokesmen said, pointing out that 1974's figures represented a decline of about 12 per cent.

The sharp plunge in 1974 came at the end of the year, when new car sales also plummeted, industry spokesmen said.

"Even though the tire sales have rebounded, they still haven't rebounded to the normal," the Goodrich spokesman said. "They have come back about half way to what would be normal replacement level."

Engagement Is Announced

DENISE SCHOB

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Michele Denise Schob and James E. Neal.

Miss Schob is the daughter of Mrs. Donna J. Schob, Wilson Trailer Court, and Fred A. Schob, Columbus. Mr. Neal's parents are Mrs. Betty Neal, 155 Nichols Drive, and the late Mr. William T. Neal.

The bride elect graduated from Circleville High School in 1973 and her fiance graduated from Circleville High School in 1972.

No definite date has been planned for the wedding.

NINETY-THREE YEARS—David McCain of Ashville will observe his 93 birthday Saturday at his home with members of the immediate family present. He enjoys playing cards and talking with visitors, and keeps abreast of current events. Children are Mrs. Irene Betts, Columbus; Mrs. Gladys McCain, Mr. Edgar McCain, Circleville; Marvin McCain, Kingston; Mrs. John Ford, and Lewis, Paul and Ralph McCain, Ashville.

Roundtown Roamers Club Discusses National Campout

The Roundtown Roamers camping club met at Roundtown Acres in the Hocking Hills on August 1, 2 and 3. Orville Kempton, president, introduced the honored guests for the evening, families of the congregation of Big Pine Church located close to the campgrounds. There were 15 families of the Roamers present.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krick, Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Paxton, and their families were welcomed into the club as new members.

The plaque which was made and presented to the club by Carl Ramey was placed over the gates to the campgrounds. Members appreciated this donation.

Families who attended the NCHA national campout in Georgia in July showed pictures and reported of the activities there. Members, who didn't attend, especially enjoyed the pictures of Ms. Orvillina Kempton who was the club's candidate for the most "Outstanding Feminine Creation." She was paraded by club members throughout the area, and she received much applause and notoriety.

Roundtown Roamers Club Discusses National Campout

The Roundtown Roamers camping club met at Roundtown Acres in the Hocking Hills on August 1, 2 and 3. Orville Kempton, president, introduced the honored guests for the evening, families of the congregation of Big Pine Church located close to the campgrounds. There were 15 families of the Roamers present.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krick, Mr. and Mrs. Wilber Paxton, and their families were welcomed into the club as new members.

The plaque which was made and presented to the club by Carl Ramey was placed over the gates to the campgrounds. Members appreciated this donation.

Families who attended the NCHA national campout in Georgia in July showed pictures and reported of the activities there. Members, who didn't attend, especially enjoyed the pictures of Ms. Orvillina Kempton who was the club's candidate for the most "Out-standing Feminine Creation." She was paraded by club members throughout the area, and she received much applause and notoriety.

Ohio Northwest Heritage Condensed In 174-Acre Tract

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of the Ohio Historical Society's Get Away Into Ohio's Yesterday ... Today articles.

Hundreds of years ago, pioneers trekked westward in covered wagons to an unmarked tract of wilderness that is now the heart of "Ohio Country" — the great northwest. For them, this marked the end of the trail ... For today's traveler, it's just the beginning. Come to the northwest ... and live a little history.

The Piqua Historical Area, located on S.R. 66, northwest of Piqua, provides the perfect starting point for a journey into Ohio's past. Here, the history, customs and life-style of Ohio's inhabitants, ranging from prehistoric times to the mid-nineteenth century, is condensed in 174 acres of wide open spaces, restored buildings and a portion of the Miami-Erie Canal, that was once a vital waterway, and was to later play a major role on the development of the area.

The focal point around which the other buildings are built, is the John Johnston farmstead. In 1811, Johnston, an important Indian agent of the federal government, became the owner of a "track of about 250 acres of elevated, rich, dry prairie, covered with grass, skirted with the most beautiful woods, and an unusually large and never-failing spring."

Today, after extensive restoration work by the Ohio Historical Society, you can again wander through the home, barn, springhouse, and farm-lands which were so richly described in John Johnston's own words.

As you enter the two-story brick farm-house, you feel almost as if you are interrupting a busy day of the Johnston family.

To the left, a costumed interpreter sits in the home's formal parlor, bent over a piece of needlework, and warmed by a welcoming, wood-burning fire. The room is furnished comfortably, not elaborately as was often the style, but in the simple, practical manner of farm people. Wildflowers in primitive vases add touches of color to the room. The interpreter will greet you, and give you a brief orientation to the home. Then, she'll invite you to look around on your own.

The rooms are spacious and fully furnished. Drawers, partially opened, cupboard doors halfway closed, not only allow you to investigate everything, but leave you with the feeling that the items are still in use.

And, indeed, the are, as you notice more costumed interpreters at work in the house. Stop by and chat with one of them. They are more than willing to answer questions, or offer explanations of the rooms.

Then, follow your nose down the steep, winding stairs to the huge kitchen below, looking just as it did back in the 1800's. As freshly-baked pies cool on the window sill, a costumed cook explains the complicated baking procedures of the open fireplace. She might even give you a taste of some of her authentic, 19th-century recipes.

Just outside, on the spacious patio, sourdough bread is being kneaded and baked. You are welcome to sample the finished product, as it comes out, fresh and hot from the oven.

Down the hill, a few steps beyond the house, is the spring that Johnston referred to in his diary. The house he built over the spring is another bustling center of activity. In the small room on the left, lye soap is being made in huge kettles, while candles are being hand-dipped in melted wax by more costumed guides. Upstairs, bundles of wool and flax hang from rafters. The spinning wheel spins the wool or flax into yarn, while the busy shuttle of looms weave the bright colored yarn into cloth.

Just a short distance away, a log barn houses the livestock that live and graze on the premises. A dirt road surrounds the pasture area, if you feel inclined for an old-fashioned walk in the country.

After you've had a taste of the 19th century, travel a little further back in time by walking a short distance from the house to the Historic Indian Museum. Because of Johnston's close work with the Indians, it seems fitting that a museum dedicated to the red-man be included in the area. The museum, the first in Ohio dealing with Indians of the historic period, traces their culture from the 17th to the mid-19th century. Any student of Indian lore will be fascinated by the display of headdresses, tomahawks, masks, canoes and the excellent beadwork of these fascinating people. It's a look at Ohio's original inhabitants by the people who knew them best ... the fur traders, missionaries, pioneers and soldiers.

Finally, to finish your day in 19th-century style, wander through the dark woods, down a winding trail to the edge of what was once the Miami-Erie Canal. Here, anchored in the still waters, is the GENERAL HARRISON, a replica of a cargo boat that was popular during the 1840-1850's. At a small cost, passengers can board the boat and enjoy a 20 minute cruise down the scenic restored canal, pulled by two mules in tandem.

A hike along the towpath, next to the canal will lead to the Lockington Locks, about 2 miles north of the area, on I-75. The village of Lockington served as the summit of the Miami-Erie Canal, and the five contiguous locks still remain as a lasting memorial to those important days. Stop, too, at the Museum of the Old Northwest Frontier. Located directly across the street from the Lockington Locks, it's a fascinating museum housed in what was once an old schoolhouse, featuring artifacts recalling the days of the fur-traders and the opening of the northwest territory.

While you're in the area, Piqua has plenty to offer in terms of pleasure and relaxation. Swift Run offers good fishing, boating and a cozy retreat far from the madding crowd. For picnicking, try Fountain Park, which also offers a swimming pool for the children, a hardball field, and an open-air band concert auditorium for enjoyable evening concert under the stars. And finally, for the budget-minded or ecology-conscious, Piqua offers seven miles of marked bike trails around the historic areas.

Derailment Brings Death To Woman

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Investigators are examining the wreckage of a freight train to determine the cause of a derailment that Tuesday led to the death of a person in a camper alongside the train.

The victim was identified as Alberta Ceryak of Youngstown. Five other persons, including three firemen, received minor injuries.

Authorities say various vehicles were waiting for the freight train to clear a railroad crossing here. When the train derailed, a semitrailer aboard a train flatcar toppled over and crushed Ceryak's camper. The woman was the only one inside the vehicle.

Ethyl alcohol leaking from a tank car that overturned on the opposite side of the track erupted into flames several times amid minor explosions, preventing firemen's efforts to reach the flaming camper for several hours.

The Erie Lackawanna Railway Co. train of 78 loaded cars was en route from Chicago to New York.

A witness, Thomas Hickman of Pittsburgh, said the semitrailer aboard the train struck part of tractor-trailer rig he was driving. He said he escaped the cab through a crumpled windshield.

"It just started coming at me," Hickman said. "It pushed me back...the windshield shattered...I just sat there till it came to a stop."

"The fire broke out at the right side of the cab," he added. "I saw it out of the corner of my eye. And when the windshields popped out, I jumped out." The falling flatcar crumpled a portion of the cab.

Armco Steel To Up Prices

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Calling it a "corrective action that can no longer be delayed," Armco Steel Corp. has announced price increases averaging 9 per cent on carbon sheet steel and strip products.

The increases, effective Aug. 20, were presented to the Council on Wage and Price Stability Tuesday by the Middletown-based firm, the nation's fifth largest steel producer.

The firm called the increases "long overdue," explaining that production costs have risen 17.4 per cent, or $45 per ton, in a 13 month period. Armco's last price hike on flat-rolled products came in July, 1974.

The stability council secured commitments from several major steel companies last December that instituted "a virtual price freeze" for six months and put off the increases announced yesterday, a spokesman said.

Last December, prices on most other steel products were raised between 6.6 per cent and 9.2 per cent.

The new flat-rolled increase will average 1.3 cents a pound, or $25 a ton, for hot-rolled, cold-rolled and coated carbon steels, the firm said.

That translates into an added consumer cost of about $34 for enough steel for a medium-sized car and about $2.12 for a 16-cubic-foot refrigerator, the spokesman added.

"Such increases on flat-rolled steel were fully justified last December. Since then costs have continued to skyrocket, so much so that since January, 1975, losses in our flat-rolled operations have averaged $2 million a month," the company said.

"In fact, the action we are taking falls far short of the increase necessary to fully correct the cost price imbalance in flat-rolled products. We will still be absorbing nearly half of the more than $45 a-ton increases incurred since the last price increase July 1, 1974," the company stated.

Armco's 1974 sales totaled $3.2 billion, with $490.8 million net income. The company supplied nearly 20 per cent of the steel used by the auto industry.

The Middletown firm called the increase "a stopgap measure until market conditions permit a full recovery of those cost increases. We cannot continue to sell flat-rolled products at price levels which produce a loss," a company statement said.

Blaming the hike on materials, energy, cost-of-living and employee salary increases, Armco said the increases will continue because a reduction in the allocation of natural gas to its plants will force a switch to more expensive fuels.

Pope Paul VI May Visit U.S.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If Pope Paul VI attends the 41st International Eucharistic Congress here in 1976, it will be his first official visit as Pope to this country. He visited New York in 1965 but it was an official visit to the United Nations, which is international territory.

In endorsing the congress and its selection of the City of Brotherly Love as its site Aug. 1-8, 1976, Pope Paul indicated that he hoped to be in Philadelphia for the event.

"It is expected the Pope will favorably respond by coming," says the Rev. Walter J. Conway, executive secretary of the congress. "It depends primarily on his health at the time." Pope Paul is 77 and suffers from arthritis.

He attended two other Eucharistic Congresses as Pope — one in Bombay, India, in 1964, the other in Bogota, Colombia, in 1968. But he did not go to the last one in Melbourne, Australia, in 1973.

OSU Establishes Aid Programs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Minority assistance programs with a potential combined funding of more than $800,000 have been established at Ohio State University for students planning careers in business and professional schools, the university said Tuesday.

The programs, although unrelated, should speed the enrollment of minority students from differing backgrounds in several academic areas, OSU officials said.

Explosion Of Venereal Disease Cases Worries Doctors

LONDON (AP) — One by one, Dr. Ambrose King ticked off the roster of what specialists now call the STD — sexually transmitted diseases.

There are at least 14 of them, and they've exploded into a worldwide epidemic.

STD is a more exact, more encompassing word for VD or venereal disease. It embraces gonorrhea and syphilis, of course ... but also trichomonas ... herpes virus ... chlamydia ... genital warts ... even hepatitis.

And around the world all are increasing except perhaps for syphilis, says King, who has been what he terms "a pox doctor" in London for nearly 50 years.

"The public would panic if any other disease were advancing at the rate gonorrhea is," declares Dr. Bruce Webster of New York Hospital-Cornell University Medical College.

He and King were among specialists sharing the latest knowledge and concerns here at a recent Anglo-American Conference on Sexually Transmitted Diseases, with some amplifying their remarks in interviews.

How casual sex can speed STD was illustrated in one British study that found that 1,639 persons had become infected from one source, in a chain reaction.

Perhaps 800,000 American women have gonorrhea and don't know it, and can pass it on to sex partners.

It's not true that women do not have warning symptoms of gonorrhea, said Dr. King K. Holmes of the University of Washington, Seattle. Many do, and could get early treatment, he said.

Further, said Holmes, 2 to 3 per cent of men who get gonorrhea do not have telltale symptoms, and can unwittingly infect women or homosexual partners. Other reports put this far higher.

In Africa, up to 20 to 40 per cent of women of child-bearing age have some form of STD, said Dr. G.M. Antal of the World Health Organization in Geneva. He urged better worldwide reporting of STD.

On another worrisome side, Dr. Andrew Falkow of the University of Washington reported that resistance to antibiotics by gonococci germs has been gradually increasing in many parts of the world. Potentially, the resistance could burgeon to put the disease out of control.

Delegates agreed that the public in general is not well enough aware of the terrible costs of STD in causing sickness, death, sterility, miscarriage, nerve damage and other effects. Some urged greater efforts at control through clinics and more research.

Mention "VD" and most people think only of syphilis and gonorrhea, the specialists said.

"Syphilis is no longer the captain of STD, but we should not write it off," said Dr. Thomas B. Turner of The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md. There were 91,600 cases of syphilis in the United States last year, and the incidence is down or holding fairly steady in other countries as well.

Gonorrhea is the new captain, with 874,161 cases in this country last year, the highest in 55 years of record-keeping. By one estimate, 2.5 million Americans have gonorrhea.

As for herpes simplex virus, "everyone thinks it is skyrocketing," says Dr. John M. Knox of Baylor College of Medicine in Houston, Tex. There are no solid figures since herpes is not a reportable disease yet under U.S. law. It often is found in conjunction with gonorrhea.

Here are the main STD that concerned the conference sponsored by the Royal Society of Medicine and the Royal Society of Medicine Foundation, Inc.:

—Syphilis, the ancient ravager, caused by a spirochete. Penicillin is the best treatment, but 5 to 15 per cent of Americans are hypersensitive to it to some degree and can't take it. Penicillin was once the great hope for wiping out syphilis, but the attack faltered partly through human complacency.

—Gonorrhea, or "clap" caused by the gonococcus. Again, penicillin is the best treatment, but there are others. Left untreated it can cause sterility among women, and other complications.

—Herpes simplex virus — HSV.

Muscovites Flock To Exhibit To Talk With Americans

MOSCOW (AP) — More than 100,000 Muscovites have flocked to the exhibition hall in Luzhniki Park over the past two weeks for the most popular show in town: a modest display of American household goods.

The reason for the success of the month-long show, which opened July 17, seems to have more to do with American people than U.S. goods.

"I'd say about 80 per cent of the questions I get are personal or at least have nothing to do with the exhibit itself," said Lisa Archipow, of Buffalo, N.Y., one of 22 Russian-speaking guides. "They just don't seem so impressed with our technology as they once did."

The government-sponsored exhibit is billed as a display of furnishings, household goods and construction materials for the "typical" American family.

The last time anything like this "Technology for the American Home" exhibit appeared in Moscow, Nikita Khrushchev and Richard M. Nixon engaged in their impromptu "kitchen debate" in 1959 on the relative merits of their countries' development and ideologies.

In today's atmosphere of detente, Muscovites seem more interested in talking with young guides about the American way of life than in fingering the goods.

The Russians — passing through the pavilion at a rate of about 1,000 an hour

— like to quiz the guides on how much they earn, what their parents do for a living, how American children are schooled and how the unemployed manage to survive in the United States.

"They act incredibly grateful for the chance to talk with us. Exhibit guides in this country don't relate to people the way we do," said Bill Graves of Washington, D.C.

The guides say they have found their reception in the Soviet capital far more relaxed and stimulating than in the provincial cities where they toured with the exhibit for four months.

Teenage Institute On Alcohol Slated

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — The 11th annual Teenage Institute on Alcohol and Other Drugs will be held Aug. 10-15 at Ohio Wesleyan University.

Ohio Health Director Dr. John Ackerman said more than 300 high school students will discuss involvement in helping teenagers solve alcohol-drug problems during the five-day session.

Ackerman said the problem of teenage alcoholics had been overshadowed by publicity about teenage involvement with marijuana and LSD. He said the institute would delve into both problems.

Type One causes cold sores and fever blisters, while HSV Type Two causes painful blisters, swellings and other troubles with the genitals. Oral sex appears to be leading to more interchange of the two types. Genital herpes was reported in 10 per cent of women examined in a national random survey in 1970-74, says Dr. Paul J. Wiesner of the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, Ga.

—Trichomonas vaginalis, caused by a protozoa. Men can have it without symptoms, but transmit it to women in whom it causes discharges, burning sensation on urination and other troubles. Wiesner said it was found to be twice as common as gonorrhea in women in the 1970-74 study. There are effective drugs for it.

—Chlamydia, which "can drive men crazy" with painful urination, while many women have no symptoms at all. It's caused by an organism midway between a virus and bacterium. While many women may not know they are carriers, it can cause serious pelvic disease in women, arthritis and heart troubles, and during birth the organism may enter a baby's eyes, causing conjunctivitis. Routine use of drugs in newborn eyes takes care of it. Tetracycline is the main treatment for men and women.

—Nonspecific urethritis or NSU, also known as nongonococcal urethritis. Chlamydia is known to cause many cases, but others stem from other organisms. It affects both men and women, and its incidence is probably under-reported, says Wiesner.

—Genital warts "are common throughout the world, and becoming commoner," says Dr. David Oriol of University College Hospital, London. In the 1970-74 U.S. study, one in five women was found to have genital warts, which appear to be a variant of common skin warts. One or more of a few drugs may help in treatment, and occasionally the warts disappear spontaneously. Half the people with genital warts have some other STD at the same time.

—Candida albicans is a fungus disease that can invade the vagina, and other mucous membrane tissue.

—Chancroids are soft sores or ulcers on the genitals. They are caused by a bacterium different from the spirochete.

—Pubic lice or "crabs" are not uncommon. Victims may seek their own treatments, saying nothing about their problem.

—Scabies is an inflammation caused by a mite, and specialists say they are seeing more cases of it recently.

—Lymphogranuloma venereum is an infection of lymph nodes in the groin area caused by an organism resembling those causing psittacosis — parrot fever — and trachoma, a serious eye infection.

—Granuloma inguinale is a chronic, progressive disease involving the skin and lymphatics, marked by small, round swellings in the groin area.

—Hepatitis, the destructive liver disease caused by a virus, now is being found to be transmitted sexually, but just how is not yet clear. The virus is present at times in blood, saliva and semen.

STD rarely go singly, so a person having one should be checked to see if another one is present requiring treatment.

Why the STD explosion? More people travel now to other lands, or far from home and engage in sex. Some blame the so-called sexual revolution. And, says Dr. Richard Willcox of St. Mary's Hospital in London, while "the young man has always sown his wild oats," the young woman had more family and social brakes on her sexual behavior, including fear of pregnancy.

The Pill and IUD can prevent pregnancy, but not transmission of some STD.

There are so many STD that "it may justly be stated that with very few exceptions, all society is at risk at some time" of contracting one, Willcox remarks.

"The difference between those who contract no infection in their life and many of those who do so but once may be dictated more by luck than behavior."

Armco Steel To Up Prices

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Calling it a "corrective action that can no longer be delayed," Armco Steel Corp. has announced price increases averaging 9 per cent on carbon sheet steel and strip products.

The increases, effective Aug. 20, were presented to the Council on Wage and Price Stability Tuesday by the Middletown-based firm, the nation's fifth largest steel producer.

The firm called the increases "long overdue," explaining that production costs have risen 17.4 per cent, or $45 per ton, in a 13 month period. Armco's last price hike on flat-rolled products came in July, 1974.

The stability council secured commitments from several major steel companies last December that instituted "a virtual price freeze" for six months and put off the increases announced yesterday, a spokesman said.

Last December, prices on most other steel products were raised between 6.6 per cent and 9.2 per cent.

The new flat-rolled increase will average 1.3 cents a pound, or $25 a ton, for hot-rolled, cold-rolled and coated carbon steels, the firm said.

That translates into an added consumer cost of about $34 for enough steel for a medium-sized car and about $2.12 for a 16-cubic-foot refrigerator, the spokesman added.

"Such increases on flat-rolled steel were fully justified last December. Since then costs have continued to skyrocket, so much so that since January, 1975, losses in our flat-rolled operations have averaged $2 million a month," the company said.

"In fact, the action we are taking falls far short of the increase necessary to fully correct the cost price imbalance in flat-rolled products. We will still be absorbing nearly half of the more than $45 a-ton increases incurred since the last price increase July 1, 1974," the company stated.

Blaming the hike on materials, energy, cost-of-living and employee salary increases, Armco said the increases will continue because a reduction in the allocation of natural gas to its plants will force a switch to more expensive fuels.

Kids Decry Undemocratic System

DEAR ABBY: We are supposed to be living under a democratic system, right? Well, what kind of justice is there when the mother and father of a family can do anything they want, including things they tell their kids they can't do, but nobody can say a word to them about it?

We have to hang up our clothes or we get docked, but I notice their clothes aren't always hung up. We are told to keep quiet while an adult is talking, but both my parents interrupt other people while they're talking. Is that fair?

They are constantly correcting us about how we eat and the grammar we use, but just let THEM, and we get a fat lip.

So what are kids supposed to do?

NODEMOCRACY

DEAR NO: Kids are supposed to do what their parents tell them to do unless it is dishonest, harmful to others or a violation of the law. I wish more parents realized that the most effective teacher a child can have is the example set for him by his parents.

DEAR ABBY: I have two very pretty daughters I'll call "Lucy" and "Ann". Lucy is 24 and Ann is 17. Lucy is married and has a small child. The child was hospitalized recently, so during that time, Lucy stayed at the hospital with him.

I just found out that when Ann was at the hospital to visit, her brother-in-law took her home. When they got there, no one was home, so he came in and tried to take advantage of her. She pulled away from him and ran into the bathroom and locked the door and stayed there until he left.

Nobody knows this except Ann and me. If I told my husband, he'd kill his son-in-law.

Should I tell Lucy what a terrible man her husband is? I don't think he should get off free like that. Or should I tell my son-in-law that I am wise to him and that if he ever pulls that stunt again, I'll tell Lucy? I can hardly look him in the face.

DISGUSTED

DEAR DUSGUSTED: Don't tell Lucy, and don't mention it to her husband. But do tell Ann to let you know if her brother-in-law ever gets out of line again. THEN, lower the boom on the bum.

DEAR ABBY: You passed over the problem of sweaty palms much too casually. It's a serious handicap. My husband had that condition (it's called "hyperhidrosis") over 25 years. He recalled that in the second grade, others would say, "Get your clammy hands off me!"

In today's society, a man's handshake is analyzed. A clammy hand is supposed to mean its owner is sneaky or insecure. My husbands hands weren't merely clammy; perspiration literally ran off them! When he had to shake hands, he did so unwillingly after drying them on his handkerchief or trousers.

Last year, Dr. Donald F. Dohn, a neurosurgeon at the Cleveland Clinic who performs surgery on the sympathetic nerves to the hands (exclusively), successfully operated on my husband, and now his hands are bone dry. Only those who suffer from hyperhidrosis can appreciate his relief.

Perhaps this letter will give hope to others who were told that their condition was hopeless. Sign us....

GRATEFUL IN ANCHORAGE

DEAR GRATEFUL: And I am grateful to you for informing me that excessive sweating is not a curse that one must simply accept and learn to live with. Dermatologists have also been successful with yet another approach.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelop please.

Thieves Get Another CB Radio Unit

Thieves forced the right wing glass on a vehicle owned by Jess Smith, Kingston, Tuesday to take a Citizen's Band radio.

The vehicle was parked at 327 E. Mill St., from 2:15 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Smith said.

The unit, a Realistic CB 23 channel radio, was unbolted from its holder. It is valued at $109.95.

Two bicycles were also stolen, according to Circleville Police reports. Beth Miller, 715 N. Court St., told police that she parked her 10-speed bike in front of Murphy's Store Tuesday at 1:24 p.m.

When she returned about 15 minutes later, the Concord bike, valued at $140, was missing.

Sandra Smith, 534 Tower Court, noted that her AMF 26-inch bike was missing from behind her house Monday afternoon.

It is valued at $70. Sandra Corne, 458 Dearborn Ave., complained to police that someone took a mop bucket and laundry basket from her house.

The items are valued at $8.

Plant Blast Suspect Held

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A man wanted in connection with the firebombing of a Sponge Rubber Products Co. plant in Connecticut was being held here after his arrest in Akron Monday.

Albert R. Coffey, 43, who gave his residence as Butler, Pa., was being held in lieu of $150,000 bond. A federal indictment charges him with arson and conspiracy in a $14 million bombing in March of the plant in Shelton, Conn.

FBI agents said Coffey was working as a bartender under an assumed name when they arrested him. Nine others—including Charles Moeller of Cridersville, Ohio, president of the parent firm—also were indicted after four men wearing ski masks were reported to have set off the explosion and fire. The four said they were members of the radical Weather underground.

Coffey is scheduled to face a hearing Aug. 12 for his removal to New Haven, Conn.

Seminar Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Bureau of Equal Employment Opportunity will hold a contractor's seminar to explain new regulations Aug. 11 in the State Office Tower. The regulations were filed with Secretary of State Ted W. Brown on May 30.

Customers Expected To Use Budget Plan

Columbia Gas of Ohio is predicting a sharp increase this year in the number of customers that join its Budget Payment Plan in order to spread the impact of winter heating bills evenly over the entire year.

Calvin Danford, manager for the gas company in the Circleville area, said he anticipates more customers will join the Budget Plan because "people realize there have been sharp increases in natural gas rates in recent months and they recognize the advantage of paying slightly larger bills in the fall and summer months in order to minimize the impact of high bills during the winter heating months."

He stressed, however, that participation in the Budget Plan is completely optional. "Columbia simply offers the service for any residential or commercial customer who wishes to take advantage of it, and there is no extra charge involved."

Circleville area customers interested in becoming budget customers can do so simply by paying the budget amount shown on their next gas bills and the same amount each ensuing month. Thus the cost of gas service is spread evenly over a 12-month period and higher winter heating bills are avoided at a time when other bills are high also, Danford said.

He pointed out that while budget amounts generally have been increased this year as a result of higher rates that have gone into effect since budget amounts were calculated in 1974, in some instances these increases have been offset by gas conservation measures instituted by individuals.

Each customer's budget amount is based on that particular customer's history of gas usage using normal weather conditions and gas rates currently in effect as a base. Should abnormally cold weather conditions occur or rates increase significantly, accounts will be reviewed next April and if necessary the budget amount will be readjusted.

Even though a customer joins the Budget Plan, his gas meter will continue to be read throughout the year on a regular basis, Danford said.

Any Circleville area customer having additional questions about the gas company's Budget Payment plan can call or stop by the local office. We will be happy to answer any questions or supply any additional information on the Budget Plan," Danford said.

SERTOMA SPEAKER—Harold Hewitt (right) was one of the guest speakers at Circleville Sertoma Club noon Tuesday. He and Bob Johnson were introduced by program chairman Ed Bohenko (left) and presented a filmed program on the Pickaway County Family YMCA building program.

Curiosity Shop Offers Local Handcrafted Items

CURIOSITY SHOP—The old adage "curiosity killed the cat" doesn't apply when you walk into the Curiosity Shop, rear of 325 Watt St. It might well be true, that if you walk in empty handed, you won't leave empty handed.

Approximately two months ago, Walter (Dewey) Salyers went to the garage located on the rear of his residence at 325 Watt Street and remodeled it into a craft and hobby store, now known as "The Curiosity Shop".

Salyers' wife, Harriet, who has worked with handcrafts since the fourth grade, got together with some of her relatives and decided to open the hobby shop where they could sell their items.

"I never worked," stated Mrs. Salyers, "I've been a housewife and I just wanted something to do." "A job

Refugees Get Tour Of Cincy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A bus tour and a walk through the downtown shopping district served as the beginning of "A System of Adjustment," a month-long course for about 50 Vietnamese refugees planning to settle in the area.

"Our whole morning's work was taken up with a downtown survey," said Peter Bauer, supervisor of a unique English course set up by Travelers Aid International Institute of Cincinnati. "We want them to be cognizant of our city, the country, the culture and the various job possibilities."

The agency, which has been teaching English to foreignborn persons for 10 years, began the course Tuesday as the Vietnamese were divided into three groups: adults, teenagers and children.

Learning English and learning about the area was one of the refugees' first requests, according to Cynthia Lynch, registrar for the course.

"We received requests from about 10-15 sponsors about the courses. It's been a predominant concern of the refugees," she said.

"The course might not be terminated after a month. It's an ongoing thing," Miss Lynch added. "Where it's needed, it will continue but on a smaller scale."

Woman To Fight Contempt Ruling

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Jill Raymond, whose contempt of court ruling was upheld by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here Tuesday, said she expected the decision and plans to appeal.

Miss Raymond was jailed in March when she refused to testify before a federal grand jury in Lexington, Ky. The grand jury was looking into the whereabouts of fugitives Susan Saxe and Katherine Powers, who were on the FBI's 10 Most Wanted list stemming from a Boston bank robbery in which a policeman was killed.

Miss Raymond and five other present or former Kentucky students were granted immunity from prosecution and only she declined to testify.

where I could stay at home and not leave the children." And so The Curiosity Shop.

She wanted to initiate a name that could make people curious enough to enter the shop. Webster Dictionary says curious is the "desire to know". Description of the Curiosity Shop idea right on the head.

Although Mrs. Salyers calls it a family affair, the shop contains items made by both friends and relatives of the family.

Persons who wish to use the shop as an outlet to sell their crafts do so with the Salyers receiving a small percentage of the sale. Some of the items are purchased outright by Mrs. Salyers while more items are handled on consignment. Well over half the work is done by Mrs. Salyers.

Salyers, who works at DuPont, does a lot of the larger items, such as making outdoor planters and urns.

The little shop, which can be seen from East Main at the rear of the Good Shepherd United Methodist Church parking lot stocks place mats, crocheted items, afghan blankets, Raggedy Ann dolls, plastercraft, ceramics, paintings and numerous handcrafted items.

Mrs. Salyers' sister Patricia Wunsch, 1835 Chippewa Dr., crochets numerous items for the shop, including ponchos, booties, afghans, sweater sets. She deals mostly in baby clothing.

Says Patricia, "Harriet taught me how to crochet."

Starting 2½ years ago as a hobby, Vicki Uhrig, 1805 Sioux Dr. began making terrariums just because she loved plants. "I started at home and now I'm selling them through the store," she says.

Harriet, Patricia and Vicki concede that the community is probably involved in the shop more now than the family. The Senior Citizens also do paintings for the shop. A few of the contributors to the shop include Bev Conrad, Margie Cooper, Joyce Finley, Naomi Houghton, Doc Owens, and Emily Jackson.

CURIOSITY OWNERS—Harriet and Walter (Dewey) Salyers are the owners of the Curiosity Shop. The planter is one that Salyers made from an old tire and wheel rim.

Shelby Woman Wins $1 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Glenda Stexton of Shelby carried a horseshoe for luck during Tuesday night's fifth Ohio millionaire lottery drawing, but it was a whole horse named Jacquet that paid off for her.

The 32-year-old mother of two, one of 10 finalists at Scioto Downs, drew horse No. 3 for the determining race, then had to wait a few moments longer when the Millionaire Derby ended in a photo finish.

But when the results flashed on the board, Mrs. Stexton was declared winner of $50,000 for each of the next 20 years, making her the state's newest millionaire.

Sohio Named In $5 Million Damage Suit

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Standard Oil Co. of Ohio is among those charged in a $5 million suit filed in federal court here by three of its dealers whose stations were sold under an anti-trust settlement.

Robert B. Williams, Bud Hatfield and Edward C. Veid, all of whom operated stations in the Cincinnati area, are seeking a jury trial in the suit filed Tuesday, which names as defendants Sohio, British Petroleum Co. Ltd. and three of its subsidiaries, Fiska Oil Co. of Kansas City, U.S. Atty. Gen. Edward Levi and William Cafaro, special master for U.S. District Court in Youngstown.

The class action is the result of a June, 1974 Justice Department decree permitting the merger of Sohio and British Petroleum, but ordering Sohio to divest itself of the annual sale of 400 million gallons of oil products by selling retail outlets in groups of 10 or more.

Sohio sold 11 stations to Fiska, including the ones operated by the plaintiffs, and last month, several operators rejected compensatory offers by the company as insufficient.

Winner of the second top money of $100,000 was Shirley Spence, 33, of Spencerville, and Mildred L. Burroughs of Blanchester went home from the races with the $50,000 thirdplace money.

Mrs. Stexton said she and her husband, Raymond, 35, an employee of GAF Shelby Business Forms, had "joked around about winning the money, but we really thought there was a very slim chance." That's why she carried the horseshoe and a rabbit's foot for luck.

"We haven't made any plans about what we'll do with the money," her husband said. "We probably won't do anything with it for a year or two, then maybe we'll build a new house."

He said he didn't anticipate the money causing any major changes for the family.

Mrs. Stexton said she bought lottery tickets regularly, averaging four to six a week, and the ticket which brought her to Columbus for the million-dollar drawing was her third $20 winner.

Ralph J. Spence said he and his wife will use part of their $100,000 second-prize money first to buy a house.

"We're renting now. We lost the house we owned in February when we had to go bankrupt," he said.

"You talk about a new life, Mrs. Spence said. "We're going to have one now."

They have three children.

Other finalists, each of whom will receive $10,000, were Maxine Marie Hukill, 50, of Massillon, Mrs. Gerald R. Bleakley, 51, of Marietta, John F. Jendrus Sr., 56, of Parma, Patricia Baldwin, 33, of Cleveland, Helen Tyjowski, 53, of Euclid, James T. Clevenger, 39, of Farmland, Ind., and Jesse W. McVey, 51, of Mount Orab.

Ten of the remaining 90 who were on the original list for the drawing were awarded a special bonus when Mrs. Stexton drew their names. All others received $1,000.

Curiosity Shop Offers Local Handcrafted Items

CURIOSITY SHOP—The old adage "curiosity killed the cat" doesn't apply when you walk into the Curiosity Shop, rear of 325 Watt St. It might well be true, that if you walk in empty handed, you won't leave empty handed.

By BOB BENSONHAVER
Herald Staff Writer

Approximately two months ago, Walter (Dewey) Salyers went to the garage located on the rear of his residence at 325 Watt Street and remodeled it into a craft and hobby store, now known as "The Curiosity Shop".

Salyers' wife, Harriet, who has worked with handcrafts since the fourth grade, got together with some of her relatives and decided to open the hobby shop where they could sell their items.

"I never worked," stated Mrs. Salyers, "I've been a housewife and I just wanted something to do." "A job

Poaching Of Bears Worrying Rangers

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — Officials report a new problem in the Great Smoky Mountains National Park: Bear poaching.

Chief Ranger Dick Moeller estimated that up to 200 black bear were killed by hunters sneaking into the park last year. Moeller said there are about 800 bear roaming the park wilderness.

"There is really no way to tell for certain how many bear were killed or for that matter, how many there are in the park," he said. "All we can do is make estimates based upon observations and information."

Moeller said about 50 persons have been arrested for illegal hunting in the last two years. A person convicted of hunting within the national park faces up to six months in federal prison and fines up to $500. Transporting an animal across the state line brings up to five years in prison and fines up to $10,000.

About 75 per cent of the poaching last year was for commercial purposes, officials said.

The hides and meat are sold on the blackmarket mainly in Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina and Virginia, Moeller said. He said last year bear meat on the blackmarket was selling for $3 a pound, while a complete bear hide was selling for about $100.

He estimated the value of a live cub was up to $300 and a mature bear could be sold for about $500.

Moeller said many hunters use dogs to chase the bear into an area where they wait with their guns ready, while other hunters set up bait stations for the animals.

"They use things like sardines to lure the bear into a specific area," he said. Other hunters use a variety of traps, although the traditional vise-jawed bear trap is seldom used.

He said one of the more common traps is the "deadfall," in which the animal walks on a triggering

CHOOSING MELONS

Melon is a versatile and refreshing summer food. A simple slice of melon can be served at a summer breakfast. Melon balls can be combined with other fresh fruits in salads and desserts for lunches and dinners.

The two best known groups of melons are the muskmelons and the watermelon. There are two types of muskmelons: the net-skinned such as cantaloupes and Persian melons and the smooth-skinned melons such as honeydews and casabas.

Cantaloupes and Persian melons are ripe when the blossom end of the melon softens and the rind color lightens. A honeydew will also soften at the blossom end when it becomes ripe. It's rind will turn a creamy yellow color. The rind of a casaba melon becomes darker as it ripens.

A ripe watermelon is symmetrical in shape with good color and a fresh bloom to the surface. The underside where the melon touched the ground should have a yellowish tinge.

Keep unripe melons at room temperature. Ripe melons should be kept in a cool place. Store melon away from lettuce, carrots, celery, broccoli, and dairy products since the melon aroma can affect the flavor of these foods.

Melons contribute an important share of vitamins and minerals to the diet. For example, one slice of cantaloupe weighing 100 grams contains almost the entire recommended daily allowance of vitamin A and three-fourths of the recommended amount of vitamin C.

Melon is a versatile and refreshing summer food. A simple slice of melon can be served at a summer breakfast. Melon balls can be combined with other fresh fruits in salads and desserts for lunches and dinners.

The two best known groups of melons are the muskmelons and the watermelon. There are two types of muskmelons: the net-skinned such as cantaloupes and Persian melons and the smooth-skinned melons such as honeydews and casabas.

Cantaloupes and Persian melons are ripe when the blossom end of the melon softens and the rind color lightens. A honeydew will also soften at the blossom end when it becomes ripe. It's rind will turn a creamy yellow color. The rind of a casaba melon becomes darker as it ripens.

A ripe watermelon is symmetrical in shape with good color and a fresh bloom to the surface. The underside where the melon touched the ground should have a yellowish tinge.

Keep unripe melons at room temperature. Ripe melons should be kept in a cool place. Store melon away from lettuce, carrots, celery, broccoli, and dairy products since the melon aroma can affect the flavor of these foods.

Melons contribute an important share of vitamins and minerals to the diet. For example, one slice of cantaloupe weighing 100 grams contains almost the entire recommended daily allowance of vitamin A and three-fourths of the recommended amount of vitamin C.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) - New Orleans' huge new Superdome has a $1.3 million super-TV set hanging from its ceiling. The idea is to give fans in the stadium a super view of live action on the field.

But when the New Orleans Saints go marching into their first exhibition game Saturday at the Superdome, the only definite show on the super-set will be instant replays and stadium-only commercials.

Fans won't see massive pictures of live action in that game or any of the Saints' 10 other home games this season, according to Superdome officials.

The reason: Despite two efforts by Superdome officials, the National Football League still won't permit live stadium only TV views of the kind the Superdome's six 22-foot-high screens could show.

NFL spokesman Jim Kensil says the ban is for a variety of reasons, ranging from possible distraction of players to fears it somehow could greatly help the home team spot weaknesses in the opposition.

He said in-stadium TV hasn't been much of an issue until now because only a few stadiums have it and their pictures don't compare in clarity to those of the Superdome.

However, he said, the NFL for the past two seasons has allowed taped highlights of a game-in-progress to be shown on stadium TV at half-time and at two other periods in the game.

This season, he said, the NFL is letting stadiums show instant replays of action on their own turf, but only as a one-year test "so if it doesn't work or causes problems it can be reconsidered."

If no snags develop, it's possible that the NFL would authorize stadium screen showing of live action next season, he added.

In that event, the Superdome could get its live-action TV pictures from two sources - its own crews or the TV network covering a Saints home game.

Only one state in this country is named after a President and that is the state of Washington.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A few delays likely. Also, your powers or authority may be challenged. Here is where your quick thinking, acumen and general good judgment will be needed.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Care needed in travel, production, educational matters. There's a tendency toward carelessness which could lead to needless errors.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You may find some real values in seemingly unimportant offerings. Don't dismiss lightly. Neither make changes in matters now running smoothly.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Be circumspect in writings, careful in signing papers, handling the affairs of others. Accuracy essential!

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Stellar influences excellent! If any of your plans have been stymied lately, THIS is the time to try again! Imagination and originality stimulated.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): A new approach may be necessary in some areas, in order to cope with unusual situations but day, on the whole, stimulates incentive, can bring advancement.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Do not become frustrated over possible delays or disappointments. With your innate intelligence and ingenuity, you can change those undesirable situations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Fine planetary influences. With initiative and enterprise, more than usual can be achieved. Day will definitely respond to spunk and pulling power.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): It's not like you to throw your weight around, demand and command or give ultimatums, but such tendencies prevail now. So... watch your tactics. There's no use in alienating others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): The stars warn against you vacillating, changing plans or projects before they have been given a fair chance. Be steadfast. Nothing has changed since activities were initiated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A day for listening well and voicing honest opinions. Take stock of why certain maneuvers and tactics did not succeed in the past and avoid them now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): A day in which to get away from routine. New scenes, new places, new people could spark a brand new interest in your life, make it more stimulating.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine intellect and rarely tap all of your resources during a lifetime. You have a dynamic personality, are usually vibrant and enthusiastic, but may drift into moodiness at times. You are a perfectionist at heart and no matter what you undertake, will do extremely well. You will be happier in a profession than in business, though your success in that field is not precluded. You would make a brilliant lawyer or diplomat; an outstanding classical musician (especially with stringed instruments), a deft surgeon, a painter or entertainer of note. Restoration Plan Discussed By Chamber Board

A lengthy discussion was held Tuesday by the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors on the restoration and beautification of the downtown area. Chamber President T. D. Van Camp presented the board members with a proposal of having an architectural design student to do a set of photographs and architectural sketches of the downtown and certain specified surrounding areas.

The board approved employing Miss Sally Counts of Portsmouth to do the job beginning Thursday and working through Sept. 12. The board approved a maximum of $850 for this project.

Van Camp also advised the board that Robert Gaede, an architect from Cleveland, has agreed to meet Miss Counts in Circleville Thursday morning to discuss with her the high points of Circleville's architecture. He had offered to direct her as to which buildings and homes in the area deserve additional time and detail.

With the professional guidance, Van Camp said that should the board later decide to employ and architect to complete a detailed inventory and written report of the pertinent architectural styles of the area, Miss Count's sketches would be beneficial.

Gaede will also make a preliminary survey on Thursday and deliver a cost estimate for his part of the job should he be employed to complete it.

In other action before the board, Earl Palm, chairman of the Finance Committee, presented his report on the Chamber finances and the 1975 budget. He said his committee and the chairman of the Membership Committee, JoAnn Brink, had met twice and had reviewed the list of delinquent members.

It was Palm's recommendation that the Chamber had a workable budget even without these 15 members' payment of dues. He also recommended that the establishment of a long range study of the Chamber's finances.

The board voted to drop the 15 members from the Chamber roster and to deduct the $819 amounting to their delinquent dues from the budget.

Van Camp advised the board that he had been able to secure $6,200 from CETA for one year to employ an assistant to work full time in the Chamber office. The board authorized Mrs. Jean Ankrom, manager of the Chamber, to seek a qualified person at the rate of $2.75 per hour.

Dr. Nancy Lu Conrad, chairman of the Health Committee, brought the board up to date on the happenings in the county health department and its hopes of expanding home nursing and immunization procedures for children.

Typical Midsummer Weather Prevalent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Typical midsummer weather prevailed over much of the nation today. Temperatures were mild to seasonably warm in most areas, with high humidity and showers making things less pleasant along the Gulf Coast and in the mid and south Atlantic states.

The showers and thundershowers extended into extreme southern Texas, and there was shower activity also in northwest Arizona and in the upper Missouri River valley.

The desert southwest still had readings in the 90s, but it was mild along the northern half of the Pacific Coast and from western New England

Hocking Sheriff Named In Suit For $1 Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $1 million suit was filed against Sheriff Paul Hartman of Hocking County by a Fairfield County youth who was burned in a fire in a jail cell last year.

The $500,000 punitive and $500,000 compensatory damages action was brought this week by Mark Williams in U.S. District Court.

The suit contends that Williams suffered burns over 80 per cent of his body when the Hocking County jail cell he was in caught fire Aug. 1, 1974.

Williams contends that the sheriff had a legal duty to secure his safety while locked up.

Williams was arrested the night before the fire on a charge of leaving the Fairfield School for Boys without authorization, the suit says.

Restoration Plan Discussed By Chamber Board

A lengthy discussion was held Tuesday by the Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors on the restoration and beautification of the downtown area. Chamber President T. D. Van Camp presented the board members with a proposal of having an architectural design student to do a set of photographs and architectural sketches of the downtown and certain specified surrounding areas.

The board approved employing Miss Sally Counts of Portsmouth to do the job beginning Thursday and working through Sept. 12. The board approved a maximum of $850 for this project.

Van Camp also advised the board that Robert Gaede, an architect from Cleveland, has agreed to meet Miss Counts in Circleville Thursday morning to discuss with her the high points of Circleville's architecture. He had offered to direct her as to which buildings and homes in the area deserve additional time and detail.

With the professional guidance, Van Camp said that should the board later decide to employ and architect to complete a detailed inventory and written report of the pertinent architectural styles of the area, Miss Count's sketches would be beneficial.

Gaede will also make a preliminary survey on Thursday and deliver a cost estimate for his part of the job should he be employed to complete it.

In other action before the board, Earl Palm, chairman of the Finance Committee, presented his report on the Chamber finances and the 1975 budget. He said his committee and the chairman of the Membership Committee, JoAnn Brink, had met twice and had reviewed the list of delinquent members.

It was Palm's recommendation that the Chamber had a workable budget even without these 15 members' payment of dues. He also recommended that the establishment of a long range study of the Chamber's finances.

The board voted to drop the 15 members from the Chamber roster and to deduct the $819 amounting to their delinquent dues from the budget.

Van Camp advised the board that he had been able to secure $6,200 from CETA for one year to employ an assistant to work full time in the Chamber office. The board authorized Mrs. Jean Ankrom, manager of the Chamber, to seek a qualified person at the rate of $2.75 per hour.

Dr. Nancy Lu Conrad, chairman of the Health Committee, brought the board up to date on the happenings in the county health department and its hopes of expanding home nursing and immunization procedures for children.
